About me:

Hello everyone, I'm Martin, I come from a little town in the South-West of France. For four years now I'm studying electronic engineering in the University of Bordeaux. I'm also working as an apprentice engineer for Safran Group in Marignane, France.

I've been diagnosed with Ulcerative Colitis when I was 17. UC is a Inflammatory Bowel Disease (IBD) touching the whole colon and can not be treated with the current technology. As the first years after the diagnosis has been pretty tough, I decided to get involved in the French association through a local group in Bordeaux once I stabilized so I could help people go through the hard times I've experienced, where I'm now head of the Youth chapter. Later I also join the EFCCA Youth Group, a European Youth committee representing 30+ patient organisations across Europe. In 2018 I joined the EPF Youth Group as an EFCCA YG representative to keep on advocate for all patients rights
